Beginning with a survey of Japanese classical design- simple, timeless shapes- we cover a wide range of creative concepts: how to maximize design while minimizing waste in fabric; how to make easy to wear, comfortable clothing; how to design fashions to create the most impact in the market place.

All of this is done through analyzing the common denominators of what is known as "ethnic" clothing. In addition to the Japanese, we take a close look classical Chinese, South American, African, and Middle Eastern drape to arrive at the basics of simple design for a modern Western life style.

Once the basics have been covered, John will introduce the concepts behind his own unique designs. Followed by one-on-one work with each student, you will be able to create simple, basic templates for your own creations, allowing participants to leave with a large assortment of designs with which to begin their own collections.
